

Messages Of Welcome

You are so welcome in the UK.
We eat some strange things like fish and chips, we say some strange things like "cat is out of the bag" and we act in strange ways like avoiding eye contact on public transport.
But we look forward to learning more about you and your culture,
and sharing about us and ours.
Thank you for coming here.

we welcome you with open arms. I hope you will find peace and prosperity in our beloved, multicultural land. Please remember that the overwhelming majority of us want you here, want your family to have safe refuge and want you to have peace.

Enjoy our fish and chips, our seagulls, our dry humour, our rubbish TV and our beloved NHS.

P.S. always take an umbrella

#MessagesOfWelcome

We are very happy to see you have arrived safely. I hope you have everything you need. I know it must be hard leaving home behind, but I hope we can make this your new home. I look forward to you finding all your new favourite things: your favourite foods, your favourite walks, your favourite bench to sit and think. I hope you make many new friends. You've had a long journey. Be kind to yourself and remember everything takes time.

Welcome to the UK!

We are so grateful and happy that you have arrived safely to us. A couple of tips for you:

- Always take an umbrella with you as you never know when it's going to absolutely tip it down with rain round here.
- Also if you're making a cup of tea, always do the tea bag first and THEN the milk!
- Always remember that you have not yet met all the people who are going to love you.

Welcome to the UK!

I hope this new place feels like home soon. We have a saying here called

"Kettle of fish" which I think is a great way to describe the people you will meet. Messy, complicated, and awkward, yet swimming together like fish in a big, warm kettle. We may be different, but we share this space. Sending you and your loved ones warm hugs.

Welcome to the UK, I'm so glad you are here and you made it. I hope you now feel a little safer. There are many great things in the UK - lovely cities, countryside and the seaside. The weather is unpredictable, but it's never boring and it is a key topic of conversation. We have some lovely food to try, a roast dinner is one of the best and I hope you get to experience it. I am very glad you can now build a life here and bring your culture and experiences to add to ours.

We need you in this country. My paternal grandparents are Jamaican, invited after the world war to rebuild this country, and my maternal grandmother is Irish - she came here for a better life. While their first few years in this country were tough and they were met with resistance for simply existing, they stayed and eventually, thrived. The UK was built on the back of immigration. You are welcome here, and welcome to stay.

Welcome to the UK.
There are groups in every city that will be happy to help you "find your feet".
This is an English saying that means: to get to know a place and help to get the things you need. We are so happy to have so many people from different places here that bring us skills and stories and food from around the world.
I hope you find what you are looking for here.

WELCOME TO THE UK! IT CAN BE COLD AND RAINY, THE LANGUAGE IS HARD AND FULL OF INCONSISTENCIES, THE TRAINS ARE EXPENSIVE, NO-ONE QUITE KNOWS WHY LILT WAS CHANGED TO FANTA. MOST OF THE PEOPLE ARE REALLY NICE. THEY MAY BE SHY AND QUIET, BUT THEY WANT YOU AND YOUR FAMILY TO HAVE GOOD LIVES AND SUCCEED IN EVERYTHING YOU DO. IF YOU OFFER THEM A CUP OF TEA, YOU WILL MOST LIKELY MAKE A NEW FRIEND IMMEDIATELY. I HOPE THAT WHEREVER IN THIS COUNTRY YOU ARE, IT STARTS TO FEEL LIKE A HOME SOON, BECAUSE YOU ARE VERY WELCOME AND WE ARE HAPPY TO HAVE YOU HERE.

Messages Of Welcome

I'm born and raised in the UK.
My parents and grandparents are as English as you can get, as far back as you go. We all want you here We are excited about a new friend joining our country. What a special friend too. Someone with the guts to change the course of their lives. To do what's right for them.
Best wishes and massive hats off for your bravery. Stay, please.
You make our home better.
It's yours now.

Welcome dear friend,
Dear brother,
Dear sister,
Dear guest
Although the journey of life has led you astray,
In foreign countries you have wandered widely, seeking the comfort of the storm inside,
Your hearts, inflamed by the pure light
of hope,
Guided you in the darkness of the night, until here,
Take place,
May love and laughter fill everyday
The smile that spreads on your face is so sweet
May our hospitality shine so strongly Gives you hope and brings your heart back to life.

Bienvenue Cher ami

cher frère

cher soeur

cher invité

bien que le voyage de la vie vous ait égaré,

Dans les pays étrangers, vous
avez beaucoup erré,

A la recherche du confort de la
tempête à l'intérieur,

vos coeurs enflammés par la pure
lumière de l'espoir,

vous a guidé dans l'obscurité de la nuit jusqu'ici.

Prenez place,

Que l'amour et le rire remplissent chaque jour le sourire que*repand sur votre visage est si doux

Que notre hospitalité brille si fort, vous donne de l'espace et redonne
vie à votre coeur.

Messages Of Welcome

May we remember that borders are man made.

That we all belong.

May you find safety and a sense of home. May you know you are WELCOME.

May there be beauty and connection for you. Extending open arms and hearts
to you.
